DROWNED IN THE BAY

T. A. Grange Falls from the Yacht Orpha And Perishes.

May 24th, 1897, will long be remembered as the date of one of the saddest drowning accidents occurring in this vicinity. From the meagre facts of the telegram saying T. A. Grange had fallen overboard and been drowned near Indian Point, many surmises as to the manner of the accident were afloat. The particulars were not obtained until the return of the party on Tuesday morning. The yacht lay in Prinyer's cove Sunday in company with the Petrel. On Monday morning about 10, the Petrel left for Picton and shortly after the Orpha for Kingston with a light wind aft. Grange had been scrubbing up before the start and was finishing the starboard side, coming aft backwards. When about midships he must have caught his heel or missed his footing, when the splash first informed his companions of the accident. He came up some distance from the boat which was brought up as rapidly as possible in the wind, but owing to the light breeze blowing, she did not come up as rapidly as would be wished for on such an occasion, so a plank and table were thrown over to help him if he could picked up. When he came up he swam, but appeared to make no headway, the plank being within his reach at first. Efforts were keeping up so well no thoughts of not getting him safely aboard were for an instant entertained, and all he said was "Hurry up." A rope was thrown him, but fell short, and a moment afterwards he sank without a struggle or a sound and never rose again. The accident was seen from the shore and a boat put out, but too late. The yacht then went to Cressey, the nearest telegraph office, from where the sad news was wired to Napanee and Newburgh. From here they drove back for help and the people of the vicinity turned out most freely and furnished aid as well as boats Boats dragged all afternoon without success, but in the evening just about dusk the search was rewarded. The body was taken on board the yacht, which sailed to Thompson's Point in the morning, and from there was towed home by the Reindeer. The funeral, which was conducted by the Masons, was from his grand-mother, Mrs Orpha Miller's, and was largely attended by his sorrowing friends. He was laid at rest in the Napanee cemetery.

T. A. Grange, B.A., was the only son of the late William Grange, of Newburgh. He was an exceptionally brilliant young man and had taken his B.A. when only nineteen years of age. During only one year more attendance at Queen's before finishing his medical course. He was well and favorably known in Kingston and Napanee, as well as at his home in Newburgh, and exceptionally popular among his fellow-students. The students attending the summer session at Queen's attended in a body and accompanied the remains to Napanee as a last token of respect for their departed fellow-student.

The medical students attending the summer session, on behalf of the Æsculapian society of Queen's, sent a beautiful pillow to be placed upon the casket of their fellow-student. W. F. Nickle, B.A., on behalf of the alma mater society, of which Mr Grange was first vice-president, also sent a floral wreath in remembrance of regret.

A number of the Masonic fraternity of Napanee met at the lodge room on Wednesday afternoon, and marched to the cemetery, where in connection with the brethren from Newburgh, they conducted the burial services of the order and consigned all that was mortal of their departed brother to the grave. Previous to this Rev. R. McCulloch, of Newburgh, read the burial service of the Methodist church.

NOTES.

The procession of carriages from Newburgh was a long one, and besides his brother Masons comprised the leading citizens of Newburgh.

A number of fellow-students and Dr. Duff, of Kingston, came up to pay a last tribute to one who had endeared himself to all.

Mr. C. Bell, B.A., headmaster of Newburgh High School, read the Masonic service, and was assisted by D.D.G.M. Geo. A. Aylesworth.

On the plot in which Alex's remains were interred is erected a handsome granite monument to two little girls who were drowned in Grange's Creek twenty-five years ago on the 23rd June next. They were Janet, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Grange, at Richmond, and Esther, daughter of Mr. Jno. T. Grange. They were about six years of age, and while wading in the shallow creek stepped into a hole about three feet deep, and were drowned.

Mr. Alex Grange was an excellent swimmer but it is supposed he was obliged to give up his struggle for life owing to heart failure. Last summer, while in camp at Bogarts-on-the-Bay, he swam across the "reach," a distance of nearly a mile, and thought nothing of it.

It is generally allowed that had deceased been spared another year at college he would been a medalist of the year.

Death has reaped a harvest in this family in the past few years, father, mother, sister and brother have been taken away. Only young girls now remain.

MRS. ROBERT FLEMING, of Amherst Island, died on Sunday morning after seven months' sickness. She was much esteemed by all who knew her. She left a husband and seven grown up sons and daughters to mourn the loss of a devoted and kind wife and mother. She was a consistent member of the Methodist church and a beautiful wreath was placed on her coffin by a number of her fellow church members. The funeral service was held on Tuesday, in the Presbyterian church, it being nearer to the cemetery than her own church. The Rev. Mr. Hicks, the late pastor, assisted and conducted the service and preached an appropriate sermon. It was conducted by Rev. Jas. Cumberland. There was a large attendance.

DEATH OF MR. CHAS. DOLLER.

On Saturday afternoon last the startling news spread along our streets that Mr. Charles Doller, one of our oldest and most respected citizens, had just been found lying dead at his own residence, a mile or so east of the town, on the Kingston road. There was no one but himself about his place that day. He had been seen by his nearest neighbors, the Creightons, at work in his own yard about ten o'clock that forenoon. but was not observed after that time. About four in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bell, of Ernesttown, his brother-in-law and sister, called to visit him, and found him lying dead, just as he had apparently fallen, of a paralytic stroke, at his front back door step. He had apparently died without pain or a struggle. Though an old man he was always in good health and active, seldom ever having had a single day's illness. He had been, apparently, as well and active as ever up to the very hour of his death.

On Monday afternoon the funeral took place to the Morven cemetery and church and the procession was one of the largest and most respectable we have seen in years. The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Crossley, of the Western Methodist church here, of which Mr. Doller was a member. The bearers were all his old friends, Messrs. J. R Fraser, Richard Wright, Alexander Grange, Zina Ham, John Carson and Levi Moore.

Charles Doller, Esq., was born in Kingston in September, 1817, and was there'ore in his eighticth year. Few imagined him so old a man as he was. It was a frequent remark that he was the youngest old man anywhere to be found. He was as sprightly and cheery as most men at sixty, with very few evidences of failure of activity, of either memory, mind or body. He spent a very industrious and active life, but was a man of remarkably temperate habits, being a lifelong abstainer from both liquor and tobacco. A man with such a sound body, cheery mind and so well enjoying life up to his four score years, furnishes an important and valuable lesson to young men to avoid all those indulgences and habits, which though gratifying for the time, are almost sure to bring on premature old age.

When a child a year or two old his parents moved to Ernesttown and located on the lot east of Captain Fralick, then one of the most prominent residents of that locality, and just west of where the Morven White church now stands. There the family resided for years, and there all the other members of the family were born. They afterwards moved into Fredericksburgh and purchased a farm, where the parents lived and died, which is now owned by our townsman, W. Nelson Doller, J. P.

Mr. Charles Doller always resided in this county and near Napanee. He married Miss Bata Bell, a sister of Messrs. Samuel, William and John Bell, all gentlemen well known to most of our readers. She was a lady of much activity and intelligence and died twelve years ago. Singular to say she also died as suddenly, of a paralytic stroke, and fell within ten feet of the same place as her husband. They had no children. The surviving members of his family are our well known townsmen Messrs. W. N. and John Doller, and Mrs. S. Bell, of Ernesttown. It will be remembered that Mr. Levi Doller, another brother, died very suddenly a few weeks ago.

For years the late Mr. Doller was a prominent man in business affairs in this county. He took an active part in the Agricultural society for years. He was also an officer of the old Fredericksburgh township council before its separation into two municipalities. He was Reeve of North Fredericksburgh in 1862. That was the first year that it was a separate municipality. At that time the council consisted of Charles Doller (Reeve), A. B McCay, Luke Carscallen, Philip Edgar and Milo Parks. Mr. J. B. Chamberlain was township clerk; George I. Smith, treasurer; Thomas Anderson, collector; Luke C. Carscallen, assessor. All these were well known and highly respected men, and are all well remembered by a large number of the readers of THE BEAVER, but all of them have now passed over to the great silent majority, except our venerable friend Milo Parks, Esq., of Hay Bay. Peace to their memories.

In politics Mr. Doller was a life long Conservative and his party lost a good member and supporter in his death. He was a consistent and reliable member of the Methodist church for over forty years. He was a gentleman of very kindly nature, and always cheerful and obliging, and had, therefore, a large host of friends. An old friend who had known him intimately for half a century has remarked that he could never know him do an unkind act or even speak unkindly. He was a splendid type of the noble and generous yeomen of whom our country has good reason to feel proud.

M. J. Butler of Napanee.

CANADIAN-AMERICAN, CHICAGO.

In Sunday's Times-Herald we were pleased to observe the photograph of our friend M. J. Butler, C. E., Napanee, Ont., and a prominent civil engineer of Baltimore, Chicago, etc. Mr. Butler has been in the city for several months, devoting his time to the study of Science at the Kent College of Law, and his portrait appears with a number of others of the star graduates. He speaks in the highest terms of the thoroughness and efficiency of the College, which counts among its staff the front rank of such institutions in this country. Mr. Butler was already well read on the line and his course of study, coupled with training and experience, will be fit to cope with the brightest lights in the profession. We congratulate our friend on his thorough training in his profession of civil engineering, it would seem that he has made a specialty of railroad work, and is now in the star graduates. GRENADIER AND BUTCHER

A Military Band-man of 50 Years Standing and a Young Butcher Experience the Marvellous Curative Powers of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

A NEWSPAPER INVESTIGATION.

In the case of Mr. Henry Pye Diabetes had Brought on Paralysis—Two Doctors said Wm. Wade Was Dying of Bright's Disease.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Them.

Each of them tells an interesting story to a newspaper Reporter—Mr. Pye played in the Marine Band at the Duke of Wellington's funeral—In the Royal Grenadiers' Band for 20 years—He had given up hope when Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him—Wm Wade, after being sick for years with Bright's Disease and his life despaired of, tests the power of Dodd's Kidney Pills and is now in good health.

From Mail and Empire.

The reputation which Dodd's Kidney Pills enjoys to-day must have been built upon a broad foundation of sure curative qualities. To verify this view, a Mail and Empire representative yesterday investigated two wonderful cures that have been much talked of in the East End of the city, and the results of the enquiry are worth recording.

The first man interviewed was Mr. Henry Pye, 115 Page ave. He is a genial, happy, prosperous-looking man of sixty-five years, and was very pleased to see anyone who wished to talk about Dodd's Kidney Pills. "Why shouldn't I talk about Dodd's Kidney Pills?" asked Mr. Pye. "In the first place they saved my life—no doubt about that—and in the second place, if it hadn't been for them, I couldn't have kept my situation. A neighbor of mine, Mrs. Farrell, she's a great Methodist, was cured by them, and she calls them God's Kidney Pills.

"But you want to hear my story. I'm a bandsman, you know. By trade I'm a shoemaker, but six years ago I laid away my last, and since then have given all my time to music. I've been a member of the Royal Grenadiers' band for twenty years. It's just fifty years ago last month since I joined the Marine Band in England. I played at the Duke of Wellington's funeral, in 1852.

"For thirty-five years I have lived in Toronto.

"In the winter I play at the rinks. Two years ago the first night was very cold, and I got chilled through. That was the beginning of my sickness. Last summer, when the Grenadiers went to Berlin, I could hardly get through the day. The next morning I got up feeling pretty well. But after breakfast I was taken with frightful pains in my back. I had to send for a doctor. He gave me morphine, and pronounced it a very bad case of diabetes. In a week I lost forty pounds of flesh. I would drink so much water that I would go and vomit it. But I would come in with just as great a thirst as ever. I must have drunk gallons of it a day."

"But could you still get round all right?"

"Well, no. My right leg began to be paralyzed, and at times my foot would swing about as if I had no control of it. I was living on Grant street then, but as I couldn't walk, I thought I might as well ride a bit farther, and came out here to get the country air.

"I have been accustomed to play in the band at the Exhibition, and last year, as the exhibition time drew near, I was anxious to stick it out for that engagement, thinking it would be my last. I was beginning to feel the paralysis in my fingers, so that I could scarcely work the keys. My friends, too, thought it was all up with me.

"During the Exhibition I stayed with my daughter, who lives in Parkdale. I was getting worse every day. My son-in-law said he had heard of several women in Parkdale who had been cured of kidney disease by using Dodd's Kidney Pills. So he got a box for me, and I started taking them. Before two days I began to feel better. I took that box and ten others. By that time I felt so well that I stopped taking them, except occasionally. My health is now first-rate, but I still take the pills, off and on.

"Last winter I played sixty nights at the rink without the least inconvenience. Yesterday I walked ten miles. Last summer I could no more have done that than fly. Really, I feel myself getting stronger every day. I can run up the four flights of stairs to the band practice-room easier than I could crawl up them last summer. I'm just about my healthy weight, and fit as a fiddle.

"I tell you Dodd's Kidney Pills are all right. I've started a dozen people taking them since I was cured. My daughter, who had been sick and doctoring for a long time, has begun to take the Tablets, and she says they help her as nothing else has done."

William Wade, the nineteen-year old son of Mr. Henry Wade, the well-known East End butcher, 940 Queen street east, was another who it was reported had been marvellously cured. When seen by a mail and Empire representative, he was in the act of hoisting a hundred-and-forty pound quarter of beef to his shoulder and carrying it into the shop.

"Are you the boy that was thought to be dying of Bright's Disease a year and a half ago, and had been given up by two doctors?" asked the newspaper man.

"I am and it was a pretty close shave I had."

"Well, you don't look much of an infant or invalid now."

"You saw what I was doing. Well, I was as good as a corpse a year and a half ago. It'll just take a minute to tell you about it."

"Six years ago I had a bad attack of diphtheria. I was just over it when I went hunting, and got a relapse. Kidney trouble set in. It would come back every spring and fall for three or four weeks. Of course, the attacks became more severe, and in the intervals I was of little use to myself or anyone else."

"A year ago last fall I got so bad that two doctors were attending me daily. It was Bright's disease, they said. They said, too, that if I got over that attack I would not be able to work for six years. Before long they gave me up altogether, and said my death was but a matter of a few weeks. It was then that some one brought me a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took fifteen boxes, and was cured.

"I continue to take the pills occasionally, especially after heavy lifting. Now I can do a heavy day's work and feel first-rate after it. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to every one that I know has kidney trouble."

LENNOX & ADDINGTON TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Lennox & Addington Teachers' Association was held in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute, Napanee, Friday and Saturday, May 21st and 22nd, 1897.

FRIDAY, MAY 21ST, MORNING SESSION.

The session opened at 9 o'clock, the president, Mr. A. E. Lang, B. A., in the chair.

Number of teachers present, sixty-six. Minutes of the last session read and approved.

A communication from the Educational Department was read, stating that reports of the proceedings of the Ontario Educational Association would be furnished at reduced rates.

The president explained that on account of the Educational Department having made some changes in the Regulations it would necessitate a change in our constitution.

Moved by Mr. J. R. Brown seconded by Mr. Milne, that a committee be named to take into consideration the consolidation of the Rules of Order and By-laws of the constitution. Carried.

The following committee, Messrs Nesbit, Henry and Brown was appointed and asked to report Saturday morning.

Mr. Rose Regulations require the convention to be held on Saturday unless the County Council allow Thursday to be taken.

It was shown that the travelling facilities in our county are so poor many of the teachers who attend the convention on Saturday find it very inconvenient and sometimes impossible to be at their schools on the following Monday. A change in the day is desired.

Moved by Mr. Brown, seconded by Mr Milne, that a committee wait on the County council and request permission to hold the Convention on Thursday instead of Saturday. Carried. It was left in the hands of the Officers and Committee of Management to formulate a scheme.

Supplementary Reading was introduced by Mr. Brown, a number of books being named which would be valuable to the teachers in their work.

An excellent address was given by the president, Mr. A. E. Lang. He spoke briefly and pointedly on the Defects in our Educational System, Greater Remuneration for Teachers' Work, Grading Certificates, Our Relation as Teachers to Political Parties and Legislation. In closing his address, he wished to see the teachers brought closer together and become more united in their aims.

The vice-president, Miss Nicol, was called to the chair.

Discussion on the president's address followed in which several gentlemen took part. This concluded the programme for the morning, some important business being left to be finished until the afternoon.

The attention of the teachers was directed to the display of five maps and other school requisites, exhibited (in a lower room) by Mr. Steinberger, Toronto.

FRIDAY, P. M.

The members assembled at 2 o'clock.

Roll called, one hundred teachers present. Adjourned business taken up.

Mr. J. Burrows, P. S. I. read a circular from the Educational Department requesting that Friday afternoon preceding the 22nd of June, be devoted by the teachers to a general review of the principal events, improvements, inventions, etc., that have marked the reign of Queen Victoria, and that a portrait of Her Majesty be placed in every school. Mr. Steinberger offered portraits at 35 cts. each.

Moved by Mr. Burrows, seconded by Mr Brown, that the headmasters of Odessa, Newburgh, Bath, Yarker and Camden East form a committee to report on this matter Saturday morning.

The Inspector stated that diplomas would be granted at the end of the year to those schools which reported favorably on the equipment and tasteful appearance of school rooms and grounds. He next spoke in regard to Third Class certificates, concerning those whose certificates expire this year. To repass examination or to pass Professional examination, at the close of the model term, candidates, in addition to being examined on the papers will also be required to read Psychology, by Baldwin, and How Canada is Governed by J. G Bourinot.

A motion was made by Mr. Nesbit, seconded by Mr. Brown, that delegates be appointed to attend the annual association, which meets in Toronto. Votes being taken on the motion, it was declared carried.

Interesting papers were given by Mr. Brown on Grammar and Composition, and by Mr. Matheson on Relation of play to school life, each subject being fully discussed by members of the association. This closed the work for the afternoon.

EVENING SESSION

The evening session opened at 8 o'clock. The chair was taken by Mr. W. S. Herrington, who expressed the pleasure it gave him to preside over such an important body as the teachers of Lennox & Addington.

After a vocal selection had been admirably rendered by Miss Coxall, the programme of the evening, Prof. Alexander, Ph. D., Toronto University, was introduced. The subject, Function of Poetry, was treated in an effective and instructive manner. A concise paraphrase in modern prose of a passage from The Tempest was contrasted with the original and the superiority of the poetical form brought out. The origin and essentials of poetry were enlarged upon and quotations given to illustrate the various ways in which poetry appeals to us. He showed how rythm and versification are strong factors but how the emotional element is the strongest, as we can have very really good poetry lacking it. It was also shown how poetry brings out character and nature, not as we really find them, but in their ideal form. Poetry being the mirror of the soul, Prose the mirror of the mind.

Mr. Lang on behalf of the teachers and their visitors, expressed that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered the speaker. The motion was seconded by Mr. Nesbit and unanimously carried.

Moved by Mr. Brown, seconded by Rev. W. W. Peck, that a vote of thanks be also given to the chairman and Miss Coxall. Carried.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

SATURDAY

The morning session opened at 9 o'clock, the president in the chair.

Reports from the various committees received.

Regarding the motion of previous day to consider the Constitution the resolutions are as follows.

NAPANEE, ONT., MAY 22nd, 1897.

We, your committee appointed to consider the Constitution of Lennox & Addington Teachers' Association, beg leave to recommend as follows:

"That all former By-laws and Regulations of this Association be repealed.

That sections 91 and 92 of the Departmental Regulations be adopted instead.

That the treasurer receive all funds of the Association and cash the orders of the president and the secretary, said orders to be authorized by the Association or the management committee.

That in all other respects, Parliamentary procedure be followed."

Respectfully submitted
D. A. NESBIT,
T. M. HENRY,
JNO. B. BROWN.

Moved by Mr. Brown, seconded by Mr. French that the report be adopted. Carried.

Mr. Nesbit read sections 91 and 92 from the Departmental Regulations in reference to Teachers' Institutes. The question thought it unwise to enforce all that the sections called for, as in some cases it is an impossibility for the teachers to attend all the meetings. Long attendance and travelling facilities had to be taken into consideration. After discussing the subject for a short time it was deemed advisable to omit section 92 entirely, as the direct government of the association was covered by section 91.

Mr. Burrows desired that a report of the convention be sent by the secretary to the trustees of each school section.

New business being called for, Mr. Burrows asked an expression from the teachers as to whether the present method of Promotion Examination—by grouping the schools—the teachers forming the examining body—were satisfactory or whether some other way was preferred by them. The matter being left open for discussion, the grouping system was approved. Papers on History and Physiology will not be required for Promotion Exams. this year.

The election of officers was the next order of business.

Moved by Mr. Nesbit, seconded by Mr. Perry that voting be done by ballot. Carried.

Nominations being made, the following officers were elected:

Mr. J. Matheson, Newburgh,—President.
Mrs. Tobey—Vice President.
J. E. Mair—Sec.-Treasurer.
Messrs. Burrows, Lang, Nesbit, McKay and Miss Nicol—Committee of Management.
Messrs. French and Brown—Auditors.

The subject, A Course of Reading for Teachers, was introduced by the president. The list of books to be read by teachers was given. Certificates will be issued by the inspector to those who complete the work and pass a satisfactory examination.

A paper by Mr. J. Morgan, "Character training in Our School," showed careful thought and preparation. This closed the morning's work. Eighty-three teachers present.

In the afternoon interesting and instructive papers were given by Mr. Perry—"Teaching History in the Public School," and by Mr. Milne—"Geography of the North West."

The programme being concluded, it was moved by Mr. Nesbit, seconded by Mr. Brown, that a vote of thanks be given the retiring officers for the efficient manner in which they had done the work, and also to those gentlemen who had so ably furnished the programme. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

J. E. MAIR,
Secretary L. A. T. A.

The thanks of the Association are due to the Superintendent of the B. of Q R.R., H. B. Sherwood, Esq., through whose kindness the teachers coming by the B. of Q. line were allowed to return free of charge.

Mr. Editor,—I read a letter in your valuable paper a short time ago from one Frank C Clarke, of Stillsville. He says in returning from church at Centreville one team began to race and went to go by without asking. That is not correct, for I did ask, and some one in the team said, no by if you can. It was a colt I had, and it became fretful walking behind the wagon, and would have gone by if he had not cracked the whip; but when he did the colt jumped and upset the buggy, throwing my sister under the wagon. He says they were not hurt, as they attended a social on the following Tuesday night. My one sister was severely cut and bruised, that I can prove, and the other I can't say was not cut or bruised. He also said that night, if they were not hurt he would give me a rap to chew, and the same young man has been sneering and making boasts of his work. He is so cheerful by his own saying fun of us getting upset. I send these few remarks as my first, and I hope my last. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your valuable paper.

FAVORITES FOR LONG YEARS.

For long years Diamond Dyes have been the favorite family dyes in the Dominion of Canada; and although imitation package dyes have been plentifully offered for sale, their great inferiority to the "Diamond" in strength, fastness, beauty of color and brilliancy was known to the great majority of women, and they were condemned and avoided by all who valued good and bright colors. No sensible woman can afford to risk her goods with poor dyes when the "Diamond" are admittedly the world's best.

A most important point to remember is that the Diamond Dyes cost no more than the cheap and common dyes sold by some dealers for the sake of large profits.

Ask your dealer for the "Diamond"; if he values your trade he will be in a position to supply you.

GOOD COOKERY

Stewed Dates—Wash, and pick over a pound of dates; take out the stones. Simmer on a slow fire with just sufficient water to cover them until the whole becomes of the consistency of apple sauce. Add a small piece of butter, about half a tablespoonful, sweeten to taste and flavor with lemon peel. This is a very healthful sauce and remarkably cheap.

Dates are also excellent chopped and mixed with the breakfast oatmeal to be eaten with milk and sugar.

LITERARY NOTICES.

THE METHODIST MAGAZINE

for June contains an interesting article on John Wesley, by the Very Rev. F. W. Farrar, D.D. In opening this eminent Episcopalian divine, says, "John Wesley found a church forgetful and neglectful of its duties, somewhat in the pleasures of ideas, and either unmindful or unwisely mindful of the poor. He found churches empty, cold, formal, crumbling into lukewarm disrepair; he found the work of the ministry performed in a manner scandalously perfunctory. But John Wesley, overflowing magnificently with moral sincerity, flashed into myriads of hearts fat as bacon, cold as ice, hard as the nether millstone, the burning spark of his own convictions, and thus saved the church which at first had nothing for him but sneers, hatred and persecution. He found England in darkness, he left it in flame." This magazine is fully up to the high standard of this worthy publication. $2.00 a year. Wm Briggs, Toronto, Publisher.

DR. JACK'S WIFE

By ST. GEORGE RATHBORNE

Author of "Dr. Jack," "Captain Tom," "Miss Caprice," Etc., Etc.

The small man puffs out his chest until he resembles a pouter pigeon.

"I'm the victim of her cruel passion —a case of love at first sight. I fancied that she trembled last night when I looked at her—a powerful sight of emotion in that girl, dear boy," and he accompanies his words with a laugh that puzzles the doctor.

"And she wrote you?" he asks, suspiciously.

"Read it yourself, old chappie—clean case of goneness from the start—poor girl."

There are only a few lines:—

"The Senorita Marilla de los Vegos' compliments to Senor Lawrence Kennedy, hoping he will call again to-day, when she may receive him in a more hospitable manner than last night."

Doctor Jack stews at the wording of the note. To him it is as plain as the nose on Larry's face, or the eye-glass he lives to sport. The trouble may be in explaining it. Larry has a lump of conceit on it, equal in size to his head. These small people are generally inclined to be very important and can strut about better than six footers.

"I'm afraid there's a trap back of this, Larry. She may have conceived a sudden fancy for you, my boy, granted, but hate is stronger than love any day in ruling the heart, and she will use you to further her plans."

Larry shuts one eye and looks as wise as an owl while selling his companion.

"Will she, Jack? My dear boy, you don't weally know me. I have made women a life study—the dcah cweatures may deceive me, but in Larry Kennedy they have a master. Yes, I shall do myself the honor of calling upon this charming senorita—she smiled at me last night—and that closes the affair. These small people are generally inclined to be very important and can strut about better than six footers.

"Neither, dear boy," says Larry, with a ghastly grin, "I've been playing the wole of Lothario—making love to the senorita, and, by Jove! made a glorious success, as you can believe."

CHAPTER X.

As Doctor Jack surveys Cousin Larry from head to foot, he makes a mental calculation that if such a condition is significant of success heaven help the man who fails, for the dude is, indeed, an object for commiseration.

At the same time he catches an indefinite something in the air of the other that tells him Larry has not been quite such a fool as outward circumstances would indicate, though he has undoubtedly been overwhelmed by misfortune.

An explanation is in order.

Larry is quite ready to give it in his own way, and the little man can, when he pleases, be quite dramatic. There is more to him than one would imagine at first glance.

It seems that he did not venture to call upon the senorita until the afternoon, when, rigged out in what he deemed his most killing suit, with perfumed handkerchief and every hair on his head in place, this little dandy of Gotham presented himself at the very gate, which, on the previous night, when in company with Avis, he had on discovering and rescuing her husband, he had declared his ability to demolish.

A ring with the bell brought a servant, and he was admitted to the main room where the senorita awaited him.

She seemed dreadfully struck with his appearance, rather awed, Larry vowed, and Doctor Jack could easily believe it, since the dude in full dress was enough to take any one's breath away.

They chatted pleasantly, the senorita saying numerous songs, and with such warmth that Larry was in the seventh heaven of delight. He could not resist declaring his love for this beautiful creature, and on his knees proclaimed it.

This produced a change; the Chilian beauty demanded that if he adored her he must prove the depth of his affection by severing the friendship of Doctor Jack and his wife and coming under her banner, when he would be permitted to worship—at a distance.

When it became opened, and he saw the snare spread for his feet. It was not a part of his game to be tripped up. If given time he might have pretended to acquiesce in order to learn something of the plans of the rich Chilian beauty, but as he and his friends expected to sail in the morning this would not be profitable.

Then it became evident that he was unwilling to obey her request, Marilla descended to threats. She found an obstinate little man in Larry Kennedy. Inquiries in order to move him, and so another step was taken.

The senorita clapped her hands and two native servants appeared, either of whom should have been able to have demolished the dude. These the infuriated woman set upon him much in the manner in which she might have urged a pack of hounds after game.

Larry groaned at his foolishness in coming without arms, but he was not the one to give in without a desperate struggle. They found the toughest little subject in the dude they had ever tackled. He slipped from their grasp, dealt them sudden blows, scratched like a tiger cat, shrieked in their ears, and gave them all the fight they wanted, for they were house servants and not soldiers used to battle.

Affairs were growing rather serious for Larry after a time, and he began to fear he would be killed, as the senorita in her fury was shrieking to her men to finish him, when by rare good luck his eyes fell upon his heavy cane, which he had laid aside in order to better make love to the beauty.

Upon this he pounced with the joy a shipwrecked mariner would feel should land heave in sight. New energy seemed given him, and he beat the two cowardly men from him, and they howled for mercy and fled.

Then Larry bowed to the senorita, who no longer called for his destruction, but seemed awed by his dilapidated appearance, kissed his fingers to her, apologized for kicking up such a row in her house, and said they would meet again, and retired from the scene, leaving her speculating as to what an ordinary New Yorker might be capable of doing when a little whipper-snapper could kick up such a confusion.

This is Larry's story, though of course given in his own way, and with other embellishments.

Probably he has learned a lesson, and will not be in a hurry to make love to to a Chilian beauty. Doctor Jack chuckles as this wretched specimen leaves him to rehabilitate this form in other garments, and rub some vaseline upon the scratches on his face.

Upon the whole Larry has done well, and picked up several little points of interest, at the expense of his best suit, which is ruined. That seems to grieve him more than any soreness of body, for he has believed himself almost invincible in that checkered triumph of the tailor's art.

The adventure proves one thing—Marilla has not given up her game, because foiled on the occasion when she made such a bold move. Doctor Jack would be uneasy on this score only for the fact that they are to leave Valparaiso in a few hours.

He notices a spirit of ugly unrest abroad. More than one little affair has taken place on this afternoon between Chilian sailors and those belonging to American vessels, and it is evident that there is bad blood between them.

Various things cause this. The Chilians have a foolish notion that the powers at Washington favored the Balmaceda government. The seizure of the Itata has had much to do with inflaming their minds, and probably the fact of their recent victory causes them to feel that they can insult the United States with impunity.

"There's trouble brewing," says Doctor Jack, as he notes these things, and his experience has been extended enough to make him a good judge.

He has an appointment at a certain hour with Kirke Smith, who has been absent from the city during the afternoon. Larry has engaged to conduct Avis to the spot where they rendezvous. Trunks have been secretly smuggled from the fonda by a rear door and sent on board the steamer. They flatter themselves that this has been done without the knowledge of hostile forces, and perhaps it may be so.

Doctor Jack consults his watch.

"Time I started," he says, and runs upstairs to have a few last words with Avis. Larry already knows the part he is to play, and the doctor has such confidence in the little man that he does not think it worth while to see him again.

As Doctor Jack passes through the streets of Valparaiso, now crowded as though on a holiday. The events of the next few hours will prove whether fortune means to smile on him or not. Doctor Jack believes success comes to him who deserves it. He has little reliance on luck, though ready to accept any chance that wanders his way.

Noticing the unruly element in the crowd that jostles along the street, he congratulates himself in the wisdom that has led him to don certain garments much in vogue among Chilians at this time, which, with his sunburned face and the wide brimmed hat he wears, allows him to pass for one of the civil zens of Valparaiso.

This fact serves him well later on, and even now he finds progress made much easier on account of it.

Evening is drawing near, when Doctor Jack, drawn by some singular fate passes down the Calle des Arsenal, and comes face to face with Colonel Leon Garcia. Behold, what a small thing kindleth a great fire! The sarcastic smile on Jack's face as he remembers the ridiculous figure this proud Chilian officer cut on a recent occasion makes the blood boil in the other's veins. He sees a chance to make trouble, for as bad luck will have it some of his henchmen happen to be near by. These fellows catch his looks, and, boiling over with the desire to make trouble, follow Doctor Jack.

Just below, a gang of Yankee sailors emerge from a cafe. They are not drunk, but inclined to be noisy, as sailors on shore leave may always be expected to prove, singing snatches of songs, joking, and laughing.

Again hard luck. A squad of Chilian sailors from the war vessels are passing by, perhaps under the influence of liquor. During the afternoon a number of rows have begun that were only quelled by the efforts of officers belonging to the Baltimore. Thus there is bad blood between the men; the hour is ripe for a melee, and it only needs a spark to start it going.

Doctor Jack is made aware of the fact that he is an object of solicitude to numerous fellow-beings when some one points him coolly. As he turns to expostulate another brave bangs into him roughly on the other side.

"That's the game, is it?" gasps the Yankee, for the second blow has almost taken his breath away.

Quick to act, the American throws out his hand, and clutches hold of the man who has just given him such a vicious whack with his elbow. He makes one muscular effort—the fellow goes spinning after his companion, and overtakes him with such force that both drop to the pavement together directly in the midst of the sailors who have at this moment come together.

One of the Chilians is struck by the heels of the last man who goes down, in such a fashion that he seems to imagine he has received a kick. He turns with a roar, finds an American sailor close beside him, and, as the worst indignity that comes to him, expectorates in the face of the Yankee, who promptly knocks him down with as clean a blow as ever flew from the shoulder.

That starts the fracas, the echoes of which will ring around the world.

It has been brooding all day, just as though a conspiracy had been formed among the lower elements in Valparaiso to wipe out the prejudice undoubtedly existing against the blue-jackets of the United States Navy.

The quiet street immediately seems to be an off shoot of Bedlam—from all quarters men can be seen rushing to the spot. It comes from mouth to mouth, the fighting has commenced between the Yankee sailors in the streets of the Chilian city. He would have given the best of his life to bring a regiment of New York state troops on the scene just then.

His business takes him to another part of the city, however, and he must leave. He does not sigh for the excitement that comes in the train of war. Only when forced into it does this man show a skilled hand, and who would not fight when brought to bay.

Kirke Smith has not yet arrived, for when Jack reaches the spot on the outskirts of the city where he has agreed to meet the Texan hard rider that worthy is only conspicuous by his absence. It is to be sincerely hoped that nothing of a serious nature has overtaken the messenger.

Of course, Jack feels somewhat wrought up over the matter. For once he admits that he is a trifle nervous, as much depends upon the arrival of Kirke with what he carries. So he counts the minutes and speculates, as a wise man may, upon what his course should be in case of disappointment.

He will positively carry out his share of the programme, and must wait at the rendezvous. Doctor Jack wishes he had sent Avis aboard the steamer. Then she would be safe at last. Perhaps now there must always be an element of uncertainty about it.

He remembers the man who longs to wed the widow of Doctor Jack—remembers him with a smile of contempt, and yet an uneasy feeling. Lord Rackett Plympton is not a man to be sneered at, and in his character of a cultivated rascal may do an immense amount of mischief.

Still Kirke Smith fails to arrive, and the doctor strains his eyes looking down the calle along which he must naturally come. This delay can have but one meaning—the messenger has been delayed by a spy more shrewd than himself, who has waylaid him on the road back, wait ing for the coup de grace until he has in his possession the coveted package that seems of such value to the American.

Jack moves down in that direction, hoping to meet the tardy messenger. Here and there he pauses, for upon the hills back of the city some of the aristocrats live; these very hills that so recently beheld the reverberation of cannon, as the Congressional Army besieged that of the Dictator, Balmaceda.

They frown upon him now, outlined against the heavens, but strain his eyes as he will there seems to be no sign of Kirke.

Again he walks back to the rendezvous. A dark figure is standing there, and sudden hope springs into his heart that it may be Kirke. To his disappointment it turns out otherwise, and as he glances sharply at the party he sees a native, who looks curiously at him.

"Senor may I ask your name?" says this worthy.

"Doctor Jack Evans," promptly, for he knows no reason that he should withhold it.

"Cospita! It is well, senor."

"You looked for me here?" surprised.

"Si, senor, the senorita me this place."

"He—ah, at last—you mean Kirke Smith."

"I mean the gentleman who gave me a handful of reals, and who said you would do likewise when you read it."

As he speaks he hands Jack a piece of paper, which the doctor reads by the last it relieves the awful suspense. He will know what has become of Kirke.

The darkness prevents him from seeing what is on the paper, but Jack's shrewdness is capable of surmounting such a barrier, and a match soon relieves the dilemma.

By the aid of this light he scans the paper, evidently a scrap or page torn from a note-book. What he reads is rather ambiguous, but it is a foothold upon which he may climb higher. He recognizes the "style" of his Texan there, just as though the other stood before him, and this is what he reads:—

"I need help—played a fool for once and lost my grip. Trust this man as far as you dare—but come. It is still safe, but in danger. Make him show you the way. All clear later."

"H'm! all a fog now, at any rate. What under the sun has happened to Kirke?"

Puzzled he turns to interrogate the man who brought the message, but can obtain little satisfaction. The fellow would evidently die rather than be a spy, and be gone, for it is dangerous having any intercourse with Americans at present. Doctor Jack has too long a head to permit this. He withholds the pay until what he seeks has been accomplished.

So, rather against his will, the man is forced to turn back and lead the American to the place where he received the note.

Jack keeps a bright lookout for squalls. He has not fully made up his mind as yet whether this fellow can be trusted, and will be governed a good deal by circumstances. At the same time he does not sleep on the way, and his hand keeps in touch with the weapon he carries.

Whatever may have happened to Kirke, it is to be hoped the delay will be of short duration. Jack is thinking of his wife, and the uneasiness she must feel at his absence.

The Chilian guide stops. Not a word is spoken, but Doctor Jack knows they have arrived at their destination. He bends forward to whisper words in the other's ear, and his manner is that of a man ready for action.

The Chilian guide stops. Not a word is spoken, but Doctor Jack knows they have arrived at their destination. He bends forward to whisper words in the other's ear, and his manner is that of a man ready for action.

Jack is thinking of his wife, and the uneasiness she must feel at his absence.

"Is this the place?"

"Si, senor," comes the muffled reply.

"Where did you see him?"

"Notice this window, senor—here is a grating in it—once the Sisters used to live beyond and walk in the garden, but it has been a private park for some time. An English gentleman lives here."

"Ah! yes, and you saw this man who gave you the reals and the note—"

"Through the grating, senor, just as darkness was creeping over the hills."

"That is enough."

A handful of silver goes into the pocket of the eager Chilian.

"You can go, now."

He vanishes in the surrounding gloom like an evil spirit, and Doctor Jack is left face to face with the window in a high stone wall. This must be sealed. If Kirke Smith is on the other side a prisoner, he must be given assistance. Jack confesses that the situation looks very odd to him. He finds it hard to believe that the Texan whirlwind could be caged in this way, and yet positive evidence has been given that such is the case.

Speculation may do for another time. Just at present he needs action. His first move is to run his hand over the wall, and find out the nature of the material composing it.

After that he walks along to discover some symptom of scaling it. The fact that an English senor now owns the place is pregnant with great significance in his eyes—it means that the man who hates him, and who has vowed to wed his widow, is the proprietor.

As he gropes along, he makes a discovery that brings him to a halt. At one point a tree grows near the wall—quite a small one, it is true, but quite large enough to give him hope. This he proceeds to ascend, and in five minutes crouches on top of the wall.

To lower himself is the next task. It would be easy enough if Doctor Jack was in the habit of carrying rope with him.

Under the circumstances he decides to let himself down by the hands, and risk the difficulty without such friendly support.

Crawling along the top of the wall he comes at length to a building that frowns upon him with a severe aspect, a house that looks more like a prison than a dwelling. This blocks his farther passage, but it may open a possible way for him to descend.

After a short investigation he is ready to make a move, and swings himself from the wall to a window which has a deep cornice, and iron rods across its face as though it marks a jail.

From this he is enabled to reach another point below. Thus the agile American descends step by step until he can finally reach the ground by dropping.

Thus far he cannot complain. If the balance of the work is as easily accomplished they will be on their way before long. But where is Kirke—can it be possible the Chilian has deceived him—that tale is not the plan after all where the other gave him the note? He has not a very high opinion of the class to which his informant belongs. There may be some other motive that would influence the man to deceive him.

Doctor Jack remembers that in olden times he and Kirke used to have a code of signals. Perhaps the Texan might remember them now. He utters a little flute-like call, which one might easily believe proceeded from some bird in among the branches of a tree.

Eagerly he listens; from the city comes the various noises that are natural—a Babel of sounds, for Valparaiso has been doubly aroused by the exciting events of the last hour, and may be compared to a hive of bees into which some reckless boy has thrust a pole.

Not yet discouraged, Jack moves along now and again repeating his signal. Finally he receives an answer. It thrills him through and through. Kirke is not far away, and has at last heard his call.

He again whistles, drawing nearer all the while, the answer becoming more distinct. One thing he has already made certain of, the sound comes from the house itself. He has had a glimpse of a light once or twice, though, generally speaking, the building is wrapped in darkness.

Now he is close enough to speak a name, and to his delight the answer comes.

"Where are you, Kirke?" he asks.

"This way, Jack, old boy," comes the voice.

The other moves along, his arms outstretched in search of the man who answers his signals. Then he strikes something, his hand closes over cold fingers, and he receives a terrible shock, for what he grasps appear to belong to a dead rather than a living being.

CHAPTER XII.

After that one cold shiver Doctor Jack is himself again. He still holds the frozen hand that fails to return his pressure, holds it while he says in a subdued yet steady voice:—

"What does this mean, old man?"

"That I have been a fool, doctor. I wish you could knock some sense into my stupid head with a club—I'd be glad to have you do it only for—that package."

"It's safe yet?" anxiously.

"I believe so, but every minute that we remain here increases the danger of losing it."

"What has happened to your arm, man?"

"Eh? Nothing."

"But your fingers are as cold as ice."

"Are they? I don't see how. Great Scott!" and the Texan can be heard chuckling in the darkness as though dreadfully tickled.

"Speak on, Kirke."

"It must be the dummy's hand you caught."

"Dummy!" casting it from him; "what under the sun are you doing with a dummy?" and Jack's voice is full of surprise.

"You see, they've got a lot of wax figures in here, probably the noted people of the world. Reckon some one used to run a show, and these are his stock-in-trade. Perhaps it's Julius Caesar I toppled over, and his arm hangs out of the window—or it may be the great and only Shylock—think of it the honor of shaking hands with such a notable party."

Kirke is inclined to be humorous in spite of his surroundings and the near presence of deadly danger. Some men would joke and laugh, if hung up by the thumbs.

"What are you doing in there?" asks Jack.

"Prisoner of war," laconically.

"But when you gave that man the note you were on a few squares of the city."

"Just so, Jack, my boy. They caught me trying to escape soon after, and chucked me into this sweet hole. I've been occupying my time and all my matches in interviewing the various worthies congregated here, and they're beauties, too, I assure you. I shall be haunted all my life by some of their faces. Regular curiosity shop. Just when you came up I was busily engaged at the stone mason trade."

"What!"

"You see the wall is very old, and I find the mortar poor. Already I've dislodged one stone, and another is ready to follow. While I talk I'm working like a beaver."

"Can I help you?" asks Jack eagerly. He admires just such boldness in conception and execution.

"Try to the left of the window. There, you may feel the stones move. Ah! we'll remove this much in double quick time, bet your life."

Their united work has a speedy result, and hands meet in the opening—hands that in a moment before mean more than ordinary friendship. Doctor Jack is naturally curious to know how all this came about, but he asks no further questions. That can be the matter of time those after they have made good their escape.

As the prisoner has said, the mortar is poor, and offers no resistance, so that they are able to dislodge stone after stone with very little effort.

At length Kirke declares the opening has reached a size that will admit of his passage, and with that he crawls through.

"I tell you I'm glad to be out of that den. It's one of horrors, too, and, if I'd been drinking freely of late, I'd believe I had 'em sure," and the Texan draws a great breath of relief.

Then the cocks his head on one side, and appears to be listening intently.

"I don't hear 'em, but they're around."

"What's that?" asks Jack a suspicion flashing across his mind that perhaps his friend has gone crazy.

"Are you armed, old fellow?"

"Of course. See here."

As though he means finding the weapon eagerly as though he were a miser gloating over his gold.

"I hope they'll discover us now. I'd be tempted to shoot and arouse the house, if you only had a mate to this for me."

"Well, I have, but don't do anything rash. Remember we've got a great deal to accomplish yet, and can't afford to be foolish."

A hearty vote of thanks was passed, to the friends of Napanee who have entertained the members of this District Meeting.

Next annual meeting to be held in Newburgh.

A Prosperous Farmer

will always have an air of success about himself and his farm. Nothing will give such an air of prosperity to your houses, barns, wagons, buggies, tools, etc., as the careful use of paint. There is economy in paint. A barn that is painted, and well painted, will not wear out half as fast as one that is allowed to become weather beaten. That is true of everything paintable is exactly suited to the coarse-grained woods generally used in barns, fences, etc. It contains creosote. Creosote is a disinfectant and prevents decay.

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS CREOSOTE PAINT

Our booklet, "Paint Points," tells why it is economical to use paint. It tells what to paint, and how to paint. It is a handy book to have about the house. Send for it to-day—it is free. For booklet, address 19 St. Antoine Street, Montreal.

—James Peter Sharp, an old and respected resident of the Township of Sidney, died on Sunday, aged 84 years. He was married over 60 years ago to Miss Ostwater, of Adolphustown, who, with a family of three sons and two daughters survive him. The sons are: James Albert, of Belleville, John O. and Sidney L., who reside in Sidney. The daughters are: Mrs. Clara Caverley and Mrs. Norton Shorey, who also reside in Sidney.

—A sad misuse of parental authority has come to our ears. It is said that a man in town is in the habit of knocking about and working like a slave his fourteen-year-old son. The last attempt of the father to discipline the boy, resulted in three broken ribs for the latter, besides other injuries. A young girl in the family is also said to be maltreated. If the story is true the man should be brought up with a pretty sharp turn.

—The Glen family, of Amherst Island, are taking steps to recover a large fortune lying in England. It was willed to them about half-a-century ago by a British officer, who died in London after his return home from service in India. At that time it amounted to seven and a-half million dollars, and with the interest now accumulated it has become very large. A western lawyer has the matter in hand, and will leave for England about the middle of June to push their claim. Mr. B. A. Caughey and Mr. Robt. Glen, of Stella, will probably accompany him.

G. E. Clement has set out about two hundred maple trees on the road in front of the Dunmore road, and on the avenue leading to the house.

A COMING PASTOR HONORED.

Rev. W. J. Crothers, M.A., D.D. who is soon expected to succeed Rev. Dr. McDiarmid in the Eastern Methodist church here, has just completed a very successful pastoral term of five years in Port Hope. On Thursday evening of last week he was presented with a very complimentary address in the church there, accompanied by a beautiful gold watch and a silk college gown. At a meeting of the Trustee Board held the same evening, a very flattering resolution was adopted, expressive of the esteem and appreciation of that official body of his valued services to the church and people. The resolution states that, "With gratitude to the Father of all mercies, we regard the inception and progress of the pastorate of our beloved Brother Crothers as being one of the most marked in the history of this church for the development of the best type of christian manhood, for the fostering of true christian fellowship, for the advancement of the Kingdom of Christ among the ranks of the unsaved, and the upholding and establishment of believers in the faith of the gospel."

The Methodist annual conferences will be held in a few days at Bowmanville, at which it is expected that Dr. Crothers will be appointed to Napanee. He has been very popular and successful elsewhere.

We have just received a personal letter from the editor of the Port Hope Daily Guide, in which he writes: "Napanee is fortunate in procuring Dr. Crothers, for he is by far the best preacher and the best all-round man I know of in this Conference. There is not one in the City of Toronto, in the active work, that I think can compare with him. We have had him here five years and he draws larger congregations now than he ever before did."

THE CRUISE OF THE YACHTS.

A Good Run and a Jolly Time—Extracts from the Skippers' Logs.

THE "SATISFACTION."

Not the most favorable but still acceptable were the conditions under which we spent our outing. Adverse winds and a downpour of the farmer's needful producing element seemed our meetest portion of what we intended should be pleasant. Being convinced that fate was against us, we arrived at the conclusion that we would not be baffled, and accordingly spent Sunday afternoon at the Sand Banks. Put in an exo-lent time at Picton on the 24th, and arrived in the river in time to see the excursionists on the str. Merritt enjoying a miserable confinement as Misery. Carson.

THE "ORPHA"

took her departure on Saturday afternoon in tow of the Dorothy, the crew being skipper Hoffman, H. V. Malone and N. A. Davis, of Kingston, and L. A. Grange, of Newburgh. At the bend the line was cast off and the Orpha was left to the skill of the crew and the mercy of the wind and waves. Saturday night Glen Island was reached and the night put in. On Sunday morning the run was made to Prinyer's Cove, where the remainder of the day and Sunday night were spent. Monday, about 10 a.m., a start was made for Kingston. We had just nicely got under headway when the lamentable accident to Mr. T. A. Grange occurred, particulars of which will be found in another column. The crew of the Orpha wish to return their most sincere thanks to the people in the vicinity for their efforts to help recover the body. Not only were their services cheerfully given, but boats, grapnels, etc., were furnished, and every assistance rendered. After the body had been recovered we were towed to Napanee by the Reindeer. Huffman.

THE "MADGE."

A very respectable number of townspeople assembled along the docks on Saturday to witness the departure of the fleet of yachts that were to make the run to Kingston for the 24th celebration. The Madge, Petrel, and Satisfaction made the start, in tow of the Reindeer, the Orpha was not ready and was left behind, but followed two hours later. At Desoronto the Petrel got away first, with single reef mainsail, and crossed the bay before the Madge tripped her anchor, under double reefed mainsail and staysail only, but as the water was rough and the wind strong Madge's strength soon began to tell as she pointed much to windward of Petrel and outfooted her at a steady pace. She overhauled her when opposite Huff's dock, five miles from starting point. The Petrel then shook out reefs and hoisted topsail, but to no purpose, as Madge soon showed her advance without adding sail until Thompson's Point was reached, when the Petrel put back into Robbin's Cove for support. Meanwhile the Satisfaction, though a mile behind at starting, fought her way bravely against great odds, as the seas bobbed her off without mercy on account of her light weight and size. She arrived in Picton about 5 o'clock p.m. The Madge then steered Young's Point and squared away for Prinyer's Cove with reefs shaken out and spinnaker set, bowling along at a fine rate, arriving at the cove at 8.05. Hailed the Rover as we entered the harbor. We waited till 10 a.m., next morning for Petrel and Orpha, but as they were not in sight we crossed the gap, under double reef, in a fine rolling sea off the lake, and near at hand by about noon, got dinner and took in the sights, had a good rest and made sail about 4 o'clock, arriving in Kingston at 6.30 p.m., just ahead of a small gale off the lake. We had a very enjoyable time in Kingston on the 24th, witnessing the manoeuvres of about 2,000 soldiers, and taking in from the head of a sights on Barriefield. We left the wharf at 8.30 next morning, under a spanking good breeze from the north, arriving at Glenora at noon. Took a trip up to the mountain lake, indulged a little in fishing and left for home at 3 p.m. with a fine breeze astern, and arriving home at 7.30 p.m., a jolly good lot of fellows, well pleased with the trip, the Madge and the weather, and no way annoyed at the countless numbers of fine large bass that Brother Kerr, of the Starr, failed to catch, through no fault of his, but only that they would not bite. Millis.

THE "PETREL."

The cruise of the Petrel was most pleasing to all concerned. The only event during the journey to Desoronto was the loss of a cap by one of the sailors before the mast. After shipping one or two tins we cruised pleasantly down the reach and bay, the only drawback to the nerves of some of the ladies would be pursuit of crowding on too much sail in the beginning of the race. Fortunately the Madge came down, staggering under all she could carry, and passed us near Bogart's Island, but we were blandly informed by her which we declined. We promptly shook out a reef, and the next tack showed us comfortably ahead, but the Madge overhauled us very much interested in the Satisfaction, which was several miles astern, owing to a later start. Approaching Glenora we were relieved behind a bluff and the Madge crept by and gained a slight lead, which she maintained until we had passed Point Pleasant and arrived at Thompson's Point, at which place we dropped for the night. The next day being Sunday we had another quiet time and then made sail for Prinyer's Cove, accompanied by the Orpha from Glen Island. They passed us during the forenoon, and we followed, and therefore arrived. We found it the cove early in the afternoon, and after ten spent an hour with the crew of the Orpha, whom we found to be fine fellows, though with one exception, strangers to us. Monday morning we were early under way, our fishing rods and soon returned with a fine catch which we shared with the boys from "Queen's," to whom we would extend our but a few minutes before the fatal accident that sent them on the return journey. On leaving the cove Monday morning we worked up to Adolphustown, and had dinner, after which the ladies of the crew took command and sailed the yacht in most creditable style, and with a real nautical smack, through head wind, beam wind and fair wind, as far as Carman's Bay, a distance of about fifteen miles. Mrs. Shipman makes no mean skipperess when there is need of her services at the tiller. We spent the night at Carman's and the next morning worked home, arriving just after the Orpha, whom crew and friends have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire crew of the Petrel. Shipman.

HOW THE MONEY GOES

REV. DR. TALMAGE ARRAIGNS ALL CLASSES OF SPENDTHRIFTS.

He Says Alcoholism is the Greatest Foe to the Working Classes—His Subject is, "A Bag With Holes"—A Drunkard's Grave.

Washington, May 23.—This sermon of Dr. Talmage is on a arraignment of improvidence in all classes, and of alcoholism as the greatest enemy of the working people. The text is Haggai 1, 6, "He that earneth wages, earneth wages to put into a bag with holes."

In Persia, under the reign of Darius Hystaspes, the people did not pray. They made money, but did not keep it. They were like people who have a sack in which they put money, not knowing that the sack is torn or eaten of moths, or in some way incapable of holding valuables. As fast as the coin was put in one end of the sack it dropped out the other. It made no difference how much wages they got, for they lost them. "He that earneth wages, earneth wages to put it into a bag with holes."

What has become of the billions and billions of dollars in this country paid to the working classes? Some of the moneys have gone for house rent, or the purchase of homesteads, or wardrobe, or family expenses, or the necessities of life or some feeble comforts in old age. What has become of other billions? Wasted in foolish outlay. Wasted at the gaming table. Wasted in intoxicants. Put into a bag with a hundred holes.

Gather up the money that the working classes have spent for drink during the last 20 years, and I will build for every workingman a house and lay out for him a garden and clothe his sons in broadcloth and his daughters in silks, and place at his front door a grazing span of sorrels or bays and secure him a policy of life insurance, so that the present home may be well maintained after he is dead. The most persistent, most overpowering enemy of the working classes is intoxicating liquor. It is the anarchist of the countries and has long plotted, and is now boycotting, the body and mind and soul of American labor. It is to it a worse foe than monopoly and worse than associated capital.

It annually swindles industry out of a large percentage of its earnings. It holds the blackmailer's relations to the mechanic or operative on his way to work, and at the noon spell, and on his way home at eventide; on Saturday, when the wages are paid, it snatches a large part of the money that might come into the family and sacrifices it among the saloon keepers. Stand the saloons of this country side by side and it is carefully estimated that they would reach from New York to Chicago. "Forward, march," is the drink party. "All aboard," and take possession of the American nation."

All for Drink.

The drink business is pouring its vitriolic and damnable liquids down the throats of hundreds of thousands of laborers, and while the ordinary strikes are ruinous both to employers and employes, I proclaim a strike universal against strong drink, which, if kept up, will be the salvation of the working classes and the salvation of the nation. I will undertake to say that there is not a holiday anywhere in the United States who, within the next ten years, if he will refuse all intoxicating beverage and be saving, may not become a capitalist on a small scale. Our country in a year spends $1,500,050,000 for drink. Of course the working classes do a great deal of this expenditure. Careful statistics show that the wage earning classes of Great Britain expend in liquors £100,000,000, or $500,000,000 a year. Sit down and calculate, O workingman, how much you have expended in these libations! Add it all up. Add up what your neighbors have expended, and realize that instead of answering the beck of other people you might have been your own capitalist. When you deplete a workingman's physical energy you deplete his capital. The stimulated workman is worn out before the unstimulated workman. My father said: "I became a temperance man in early life because I noticed in the harvest field, that though I was physically weaker than other workmen, I could hold out longer than they. They took stimulants, I took none." A brick maker in England gives his experience in regard to this matter among men in his employ. He says, after investigation: "In Sheffield brother who made the heaviest bricks made 659,000, and the abstainer who made the fewest bricks 746,000. The difference in behalf of the abstainer over the intemperate 87,000."

When an army goes out to the battle, the soldier who has water or coffee in his canteen marches easier and fights better than the soldier who has whisky in his canteen. Drink helps a man to fight when he has only one contestant, and that is the street corner. But when he goes forth to maintain some great battle for God and his country, he wants no drink about him. When the Russians go to war they leave behind them the fire-water and smells the breath of every soldier. If there be in his breath a taint of intoxicating liquor, the man is sent back to the barracks. Drink will not endure fatigue. All our young men know this. When they are preparing for a regatta or for a ball club or for an athletic wrestling they abstain. Our working people will be wiser after awhile, and the money they fling away on hurtful indulgences they will put into co-operative association and so become capitalists. If the working man put down his wages and take his expenses and spread them out over the year, he will find he is not wise. I know working men who are in a perfect fidget until they get rid of their last dollar.

Drink a Soulskin Cost.

The following circumstances came under our observation: A young man worked hard to earn his $600 or $700 yearly. Marriage day came. The bride had inherited $500 from her grandfather. She spent every dollar of it on the wedding dress. Then they rented two rooms in a third story. Then the young man took extra evening work; almost exhausted with the day's work, yet took evening employment. Its almost extinguished his eyesight. Why did he take evening employment to the day employment? To get money. Why did he want to get money? To lay up something for a rainy day? No. To get his wife things so that in case of his death his wife would not be a beggar? No. He put the extra evening work to the day work that he might get $150 to get his wife a soulskin coat. The sister of the bride heard of this achievement, and was not to be eclipsed. She was very poor, and she set up working nearly all the night for a great while until she bought a soulskin coat. I have not heard of the result on that street. The street was full of those who are on small incomes, but I suppose the competition ceased, and that everybody had a soulskin coat, and the people came out and cried, practically, not literally, "Drought, the heavens fall, we must have a soulskin coat!"

I was out west and a minister of the gospel told me in love, that his church and the church next to it were both established by the fact that they put competition on their forms in order to send their families to the Philadelphia centennial. It was not respectable not to go to the centennial. Between such evils and pauperism there is a very short step. The vast majority of children in your almshouses are there because their parents are drinking, lazy or recklessly improvident.

I have no sympathy for skinflint saving, but I plead for Christian prudence. You say it is impossible now to lay up anything for a rainy day. I know it, but we are at the daybreak of national prosperity. Some people think it is mean to turn the gas low when they go out of the parlor. They feel embarrassed if the doorbell rings before they have the hall lighted. They apologize for the plain meal if you surprise them at the table. Well, it is mean if it is only to pile up a miserly hoard, but if it be to educate your children, if it be to give more help to your wife when she does not feel strong, if it be to keep your funeral day from being horrible beyond all endurance because it is to be the disruption and annihilation of the domestic circle, if it be for that then it is magnificent.

Breeds Poverty.

There are those who are kept in poverty because of their own fault. They might have been well off, but they smoked or chewed up their earnings, or they lived beyond their means, while others on the same wages and on the same salaries went on to competency. I know a man who is all the time complaining of his poverty and crying out against rich men, but he himself keeps two dogs, and chews and smokes, and is full to the chin with whisky and beer. Wilkins Micawber said to David Copperfield: "Annual income, £1 annual income; expenses, 20 shillings and 6 pence; result, misery. But, Copperfield, my boy, £1 income, expenses, 19 shillings and 6 pence; result, happiness." But, O workingman, take your morning dram and your noon dram and your evening dram., and spend everything you have over for tobacco and excursions, and you insure poverty for yourself and your children forever!

If by some generous fiat of the capitalists of this country or by a new law of the government of the United States 25 per cent. or 50 per cent. or 100 per cent. were added to the wages of the working classes of American, it would be no advantage to hundreds of thousands of them unless they stopped strong drink. Aye, until they quit that evil habit, the more money the more ruin, the more wages, the more holes in the bag.

The plea is to these working people who are in a discipleship to the whisky bottle, the beer jug and the wine flask. And what I say to them will not be more appropriate to the working classes than to the business classes, and the literary classes, and the professional classes, and all classes, and not with the people of one age more than with those of all ages. Take one good square look at the suffering of the man whom strong drink has enthralled, and remember that toward that goal multitudes are running. The disciple of alcoholism suffers the loss of self respect. Just as soon as a man wakes up and finds that he is the captive of strong drink, he feels demeaned. I do not care how recklessly he acts. He may say, "I don't care;" he does care. He cannot look a pure man in the eye unless it is with positive force of resolution. Three-fourths of his nature is destroyed; his self respect is gone; he says things he would not otherwise say; he does things he would not otherwise do. When a man is nine-tenths gone with strong drink, the first thing he wants to do is to persuade you that he can stop any time he wants to. He cannot. The Philistines have bound him hand and foot, and shorn his locks, and put out his eyes, and are making him grind in the mill of a great horror. He cannot stop. I will prove it. He knows that his course is bringing ruin upon himself. He knows himself. If he could stop, he would. He knows his course is bringing ruin upon his family. He knows it. He would stop if he could. He cannot. Perhaps he could three months or a year ago; not now. Just ask him to stop a month. He cannot. He knows he cannot, so he does not try.

Drink Victims.

I had a friend who was for 15 years going down under this evil habit. He had large means. He had given thousands of dollars to different kinds of reformatory institutions of all sorts. He was very genial, very generous and very lovable, and whenever he talked about this evil them one could see he will put it down time." But he kept going on, going on down, down, down. His family would say, "I wish you would stop." "Why," he would reply, "I can stop any time if I want to." After awhile he had delirium tremens. He had it twice, and yet after that he said, "I could stop at any time if I wanted to." He died now. What killed him? Drink, drink! And yet among his last utterances was, "I can stop at any time." He did not stop it because he could not stop it. Oh, there is a point in inebriation beyond which if a man goes he cannot stop!

One of his friends said to a Christian man: "Sir, if I were told that I couldn't get a drink until to-morrow night unless I had all my fingers cut off, I would say, 'Bring the knives and cut them off now.'" I have a dear friend in Philadelphia whose nephew came to him one day, and when he was exhorted about his evil habit said: "Uncle, I can't give it up. If there stood a cannon and it was loaded and a glass of wine were put on the mouth of that cannon, and I knew that you would fire it off just as I came up and took the glass, I would start, for I must have it." Oh, it is a sad thing for a man to wake up in this life and feel that he is a captive! He says: "I could have got rid of this once, but I can't now. I might have lived an honorable life, and I must have a Christian death. But there is no hope for me now. There is no escape for me. Dead, but not buried. I am a walking corpse. I see an apparition of what I once was. I am a caged immortal beating against the wires of my cage in this direction; beating against the wires in that direction; beating against the wires and blood upon my soul, yet not able to get out—destroyed without

You may get over that slight cold all right, but it has left its mark on the membranes lining your throat. You are liable to take another cold and the second one will hang on longer than the first. Scott's Emulsion is not an ordinary cough specific, but it is "the ounce of prevention." It builds up the system, checks inflammation and heals inflamed membranes. "Slight" colds never bring serious results when it is promptly taken.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville, Ont.

mercy.

"Go on and say that the disciple of rum suffers from the loss of health. The older men may remember that some years ago Dr. Sewell went through this country and elected a chair of physiology, in which he showed the effects of alcoholism on the human stomach. He had seven or eight diagrams by which he showed the devastation of strong drink upon the physical system. These were there would be people who turned back from that ulcerous sketch swearing eternal abstinence from everything that could intoxicate.

In Delirium.

God only knows what the drunkard suffers. Pain flies on every nerve, and travels every muscle, and gnaws every bone, and burns with every flame, and stings with every poison, and pulls at him with every torture. What reptiles crawl over his sleeping limbs! What fiends stand by his midnight pillow! What groans tear his ear! What horrors shiver through his soul! Talk of the rack, talk of the inquisition, talk of the funeral pyre, talk of the crushing Juggernaut—he feels them all at once. Have you ever been in the ward of the hospital where these inebriates are dying, the stench of their wounds driving back the attendants, their voices sounding through the house? The keeper cries out and says: "Hush, now be still! Stop making all this noise!" But it is effectual only for a moment, for as soon as the keeper is gone they begin once again: "O God, O God! Help, help! Drink! Give me drink! Help! Take them off me! Take them off me! O God!" And then they shriek as they rave, and they pluck out their hair by handfuls and bite their nails into the quick, and then they groan, and they shriek, and they blaspheme, and they ask the keepers to kill them—"Stab me! Smother me! Strangle me! Take the devils off me!" Oh, it is no fancy sketch! That thing is going on now all up and down the land, and I tell you further that this is going to be the death that some of you will die. I know it. I see it coming.

Again, the inebriate suffers through the loss of home. I do not care how much he loves his wife and children, if this passion for strong drink has mastered him, he will do the most outrageous things, and if he could not get drink in any other way he would sell his family into eternal bondage. How many homes have been broken up in that way no one but God knows. Oh, there is nothing that will so destroy a man for this life and damn him for the life that is to come! Do not tell me that a man can be happy when he knows that he is breaking his wife's heart and clothing his children with rags. Why, there are on the streets of this city to-night, in cold, little children barefooted, unwashed and unkempt—want on every patch of their faded dress and on every wrinkle of their premature face, inability to get what they would have been in churches to-day and as well clad as you are but for the fact that rum destroyed their parents and drove them into the gutter. Oh, it is a thou foe of God, thou despoiler of home, thou recruiting officer of the pit, I hate thee!

A Deeper Loss.

But my subject takes a deeper tone, and that is that the unfortunate of whom I speak suffers from the loss of the soul. The Bible intimates that this is a lost world, if we are unforgiven here, our bad passions and appetites, unrestrained, will go along with us and take our torment there. So long as the inebriate wakes up in that world, he will feel an infinite thirst consuming him. Now, down in this world, although he may have been very low, he could get it, or he could steal 5 cents with which to get that which would slake his thirst for a little while. But eternity where is the rum to come from?

Oh, the deep, exhausting, exasperating, everlasting thirst of the drunkard in hell! Why, if a fiend came up to earth for some infernal work in a grogshop and should go back taking on its wing just one drop of that for which the inebriate in the world longs, the excitement would it make there? Put that one drop from off the fiend's wing on the tip of the tongue of a fever destroyed inebriate; let his liquid brightness just touch it, let the drop be very small, if it only have in it the smack of alcoholic drink; let a drop of it fall on the lip of the inebriate in the lost world, and he would spring to his feet and cry: "That is rum, aha! That is rum!" And it would wake up the whole place. It would awaken "Give me rum! Give me rum! Give me rum!" In the future world I do not believe that it will be the absence of God that will make the drunkard's sorrow. I do not believe it will be the absence of light. I do not believe that it will be the absence of holiness. I think it will be the absence of rum. Oh, "Look not upon the wine when it is red, when it moveth itself aright in the cup, for at the last it biteth like a serpent and it stingeth like an adder."

When I declared some time ago that there was a point beyond which a man could not stop, I went into a room in New York where there were many men who had been reclaimed from drunkenness. I heard their testimony, and for the first time in my life there flashed out a truth I never understood. They said: "We were victims of strong drink. We tried to give it up, but always failed. We knew we were not right in our hearts to Christ, he has taken care of us." I believe that the time will soon come when the grace of God will show its power not only to save the soul, but his body, and reconstruct, purify, elevate and redeem it.

A Sure Remedy.

I verily believe that, although you feel grappling at the soul of your tongues an almost omnipotent thirst, if you will give your heart to God, he will help you by his grace to conquer. Try it. It is your last hope. Shall we all soft upon the desolation. Sitting next to you in our religious assemblages there are a good many people in awful peril; and, judging from many of circumstances, there is not one chance in five thousand that they will get clear of it. There are them in every congregation from the Sabbath to Sabbath of whom I must make the remark that if they do not change their course, within ten years they will, as to their bodies, be down in drunkards' graves, and as to their souls, lie down in a drunkard's perdition. I know that is an awful thing to say, but I cannot help saying it.

Oh, beware! You have not yet been captured. Beware! Whether the beverage be poured in the golden chalice or pewter mug, in the fashion of the day or the old letters, let there be spelled out to your soul, "Beware!" When the books of eternity are opened and 10,000,000 drunkards come up to get their doom, I want you to bear witness that I, in the fear of God and in the love for your soul, told you, with all the power of Christian kindness, to beware of that which has already exerted its influence upon your family, blowing out some of its lights and a premonition of the blackness of darkness forever.

Oh, if I could only hear from every one, which doubtless I never shall, on the day of the Lord, the joyful shout of immortal souls, saying, "Brethren, one glance of a temperance map would make you shudder, and the color of the liquor would make you think of the blood of the soul, and the foam on the top of the glass would remind you of the froth on the maniac's lip, and you would kneel down and pray God that, rather than your children should become captives of this evil habit, you would like to carry them out some bright spring day to the cemetery and put them away to the harsh sound of the fall of the south wind the flowers would come up all over the grave—sweet prophecies of the resurrection! God has a balm for such a wound, but what flower of comfort ever grew on a drunkard's sepulcher?

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Toronto, May 25.—There was a heavy run of stuff at the Western cattle yards this morning, as yesterday's and to-day's receipts took a total of between 130 and 140 loads, including 1,500 hogs, 350 sheep and lambs, 150 calves, and a couple of dozen milkers. For cattle generally, both export and butchers' cattle, the market was a very bad one, and much of the receipts remained unsold. At one time during the morning there were quite a dozen cars which could not be unloaded, as all the pens were full, and there was no space left for the cattle.

Except for what little choice stuff we have in, the prices for butcher cattle, while nominally unchanged, were weaker, and a feeling of general depression and discontent had settled on the market. For good cattle there was a dull sale at from 3 to 3¼c, with occasionally a sale

The man who has been struck by a locomotive and is picked up alive and carried on by the cowcatcher has had a miraculous escape. The man who through neglect has sacrificed his health and wrecked his body, and through the merits of a medicine is picked up alive and restored to health has had an almost equally wonderful experience. There are thousands of men, who have for years worked themselves to the neglect of their health, and then when utterly wrecked in body and shattered in nerve have been picked up and restored to health by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It is a marvelous remedy that corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver, and fills the blood with the life-giving elements that build new flesh and muscle. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption and is a specific for diseases due to disorders of the digestion or imperfect nutrition. Druggists sell it.

"Myself and wife," writes Mr. H. G. Adams, of Turners Station, Henry Co. Ky., "have taken five bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and 'Favorite Prescription.' The medicines are curing both of us. We can't say enough in favor of them or for you. My wife persuaded me to visit the doctor here and take a course of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did so, and I thank God for it. I have recommended it to a great many of my neighbors. I told them that if it did not do them one dollar's worth of good that I would pay for it.

"I will give you a little statement of my own case. I was enervated, could hardly get up in the morning, never got a whole night's sleep, was short of breath, had a tight feeling in the chest, cough, and was restless. I would throw off my food, and had numerous other symptoms, always have not time to write about now. I now feel better and look better than ever before in my life."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the surest, safest, quickest cure for constipation. They never gripe. One little Pellet is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Substitutes are sometimes dangerous, and always cause discomfort.

of a few extra choice cattle at 3¼c per pound; lots of two and three were reported as occasionally bringing a shade more, but these extreme figures did not make a market, and only mislead farmers, who are very much apt to think their own particular stuff is always among the best stuff, and if they see a high figure quoted in a newspaper immediately rush their cattle to market, expecting to realize the highest price. Much complaint is made at these yards that prices paid have to be paid in the country for cattle which cannot be realized with any margin of profit, either here or in the Old Country markets.

Calves were weak on account of oversupply and poor quality. Prices for calves sold at from $3 to $4.50 each; common stuff is not wanted.

Sheep are dull at from 3¼ to 3½c per pound.

Yearlings sold from 5 to 5½c per pound, but were weak at these figures.

Spring lambs were quoted at from $2.50 to $4 each.

The hog market was pretty active, and firm; the best price paid was $5.20 per 100 pounds; light fats sold $5, and thick fat $1 75 per 100 pounds. Stores and stags are practically unchanged.

A Slick Swindle.

St. Catharines, Ont., May 24.—A slick job was put up on several of our merchants on St. Paul street Saturday night. A young man, calling himself E. Kenneth Houston, of New York, came to the city and opened an office on St. Paul st. He represented himself as an artist, said he was commissioned by a firm in New York city to paint a number of pictures in oil to decorate a large building in that city, and that he intended to paint many of the pictures from scenery in this vicinity. He rented rooms, hired a piano and, to all appearances, meant business. Saturday night he took a walk along St. Paul street and dropped into several of the leading stores and made purchases ranging from $7 to $15, giving his cheque in payment, for a much larger amount, receiving his change in good Canadian money. In order to satisfy the merchants his room nothing was found but an old suit of clothes, which he had left and donned an elegant suit he had purchased with one of his bogus cheques Saturday night. How he got out of the Welland House and took his trunk with him is a mystery, as a watchman was on duty all night. Many merchants victimized are feeling very sore over the affair, but is is doubtful if they will be able to capture Houston.

McKinley Congratulates the Queen.

Washington, May 24.—The President this morning sent a cablegram of congratulations to Queen Victoria congratulating her on the celebration of her 79th birthday. The message was as follows: "To the Most Illustrious of the United States, London: The President desires you to convey to the Queen his sincere congratulations and those of the American people upon the occasion of her 79th birthday." (Signed) Sherman."

American Gold Shipments.

New York, May 24.—Further gold shipments are announced for to-morrow's steamer of $600,000 by L. Von Hoffman & Co., and $1,250,000 by Lazard Freres.

The Dale Government has decided to give to the British Company the concession for the ocean cable. British men-of-war are now surveying the cable route.

The British fruit steamer Ethelred, which arrived at Philadelphia on Sunday, was on two occasions chased by Spanish cruisers, which fired shots across her bows.

Any amateur can take a photograph which will satisfy himself, but the public will not be so easily satisfied. Only long experience and ability to pass on as to recognize best effects, with a detailed observance of details will command the public confidence. A Remarkable Case.

DOCTORS COULD NOT AGREE AS TO THE TROUBLE.

A New Brunswick Lady the Victim—suffered for Thirty years—The Attack Caused Partial Blindness and a Peculiar Form of Semi-Paralysis.

Mrs. E. P. Rose, of Riley Brook, N. B., says:—I have been a sufferer for thirty years, and I am sure I would still be in the same lamentable condition had it not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was married at the age of twenty and am now fifty-one years old. I had always enjoyed good health until after my first child was born. About a month later the illness attacked me which has since made my life miserable. I consulted different doctors, but they did not agree as to the nature of my trouble. One said it was a species of paralysis, others said symptoms of fits. I would be feeling very well when I would suddenly have a sensation of partial blindness, and everything before me would sparkle. Then my hand and arm on one side would become numb, and after about ten minutes this sensation would pass to my lower limbs, then my tongue would become affected, as would also my hearing. Voices, no matter how close to me, would seem to be distant and far away. These symptoms would last for about forty minutes. I would have a violent pain over the eyes, which would continue for twelve hours or more. Notwithstanding all that was done for me, these spells were coming frequently, and at last I would have two attacks a day. I was also troubled with bronchitis, which added to my misery. I could not sew or knit or do any work that required close attention to it. All this trouble had never left for years, and at the age of 48 I consulted another doctor. The medicine he gave me, however, made me worse instead of better. Then I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was using the third box before I found any benefit, but then there was a decided change. By the time I used twelve boxes I felt as well as I did in my young days. Every symptom of the trouble that had so long made my life miserable had disappeared. For eighteen months I did not use the pills and was as well as ever I had been in my life. Then one morning I felt a slight attack of the old trouble and determined to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills again. I got a box and took an occasional pill and have never since had a symptom of the trouble. To say that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done wonders for me is putting it mildly, and I strongly urge their use on all who may be ill. Pink Pills were also of great benefit to a friend of mine, Miss Effie J. Everett. Her mother died when she was quiet young, and naturally much of the care of the household developed upon her, and as she grew up she became weak, easily tired, subject to headaches and her complexion was pale and wax like. A young lady teacher who was boarding with the family, and who had used Pink Pills with great success urged her to try them. The result was that she soon was enjoying the best of health and is a fine robust young lady who shows no traces of her former illness.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitation by insisting every box you purchase is enclosed in a wrapping bearing the full trade mark, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

A ROYAL MESSAGE.

The Queen Will Telegraph Direct to Every Part of Her Dominions During the Jubilee Service.

London, May 24.—The Daily Telegraph will announce in the morning that the Queen has consented to the proposal that she should send a message to every part of her dominions simultaneously during the Jubilee service at St. Paul's. For this purpose a wire communicating with all the cables will be carried up the cathedral steps, and probably into the sanctuary.

Used a Sledge Hammer.

Markham, Ont., May 24.—Between 2 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning burglars entered the Tremont house here through a window in the bar, and secured five dollars from the till. They drilled a hole in the safe, and punched the combination off with a sledge-hammer and chisel, which they left behind them. They secured nothing from the safe, overlooking Mr. Hill's valuable gold watch and $110 in a cigar box in a secretary above the safe. They had their tools so muffled that no one in the house heard the least noise.

Bowmanville Briefs.

Bowmanville, Ont., May 24.—The bonus by-law granting $6,000 to the Bowmanville Rubber Manufacturing Company was carried here Saturday by a majority of 28 votes over the required number.

A sad affair happened here Saturday just before noon. Mr. Scott, an old gentleman, a former resident here, came over from Orono to vote for the by-law. He had ascended the Town hall stairs, and was about to enter the Council Chamber to vote, when he dropped down and expired almost instantly.

Caught in Detroit.

Detroit, May 23.—John Whelan, age twenty-one, a cooper from Toronto, and a companion of his, who refuses to give his name, were arrested here on Friday night. On them was found a large quantity of cheap jewellery, pocket-knives, ladies' gloves, silk handkerchiefs, etc., which are supposed to have been stolen from some country store in the vicinity of Guelph or St. Thomas, Ont.

An agitation is being carried on all over Canada in favor of widening wagon tires to three or four inches.

BALFOUR'S PROPOSAL

CONSTITUTES THE LEADING TOPIC IN LONDON.

Was Sprung as a Surprise—People Generally Believe Mr. Chamberlain Worked It Up—It Will Do Much to Popularize the Government in Ireland.

London, May 24.—The scheme of the Government for the relief of Ireland, as outlined in the House of Commons yesterday by the First Lord of the Treasury, Mr. A. J. Balfour, was sprung as a surprise upon most of the members and is the leading topic for discussion in the political world to-day. Both parties attribute it to the influence of Joseph Chamberlain, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and it is admitted by all that it will do much to popularize the Government in Ireland, and also among its progressist supporters in England.

On the other hand, many Liberals believe it will help them rather than the Unionists, for, if it is a success, it will disarm the opposition to Home Rule.

Under the scheme the landlords will receive about £250,000 yearly, and the tenants will be relieved of about £400,000 of yearly taxation. It is understood that the project was approved at Thursday's Cabinet council, and that before it is submitted to Parliament its salient features will be communicated in confidence to the leading Irish landlords.

Timothy M. Healy and a couple of other Irish Members of Parliament are one of the Liberal newspapers describe the scheme as a "social revolution, largely democratic and beneficent in giving local government to Ireland.

NEW QUEBEC MINISTRY.

Premier Marchand Has Selected His Cabinet.

Quebec, May 24.—Hon. M. Marchand arrived by boat this morning and was sent for by the Lieut.-Governor and entrusted with the formation of a new Ministry. Contrary to what was generally expected Mr. Marchand did not immediately call out those whom he had selected to enter his Cabinet to be sworn in, and a generally well-informed party assures your correspondent that the new Ministers will be sworn in at Montreal on Friday or Saturday next, when Lieut.-Governor Chapleau will go to Montreal for that purpose. It will be constituted as follows:—

Treasurer—Mr. Duffy.
Public Works—Mr. Parent.

Attorney-General—Mr. Archambault.
Crown Lands—Mr. Turgeon.
Mines—Mr. Bickerdike.
Ministers without portfolio—Dr. Guerin and Hon. Mr. Shehyn.
Speaker of the Legislative Council—Hon. R. C. Marcil.
Speaker of the Legislative Assembly—Hon. Jules Tessier.

Hon. Mr. Marchand attended a State banquet at Spencerwood this evening and will leave again for Montreal to-morrow.

IMMIGRATION LITERATURE.

A Letter Sent Back to Detroit by a Party of French Settlers in Mistassini.

Detroit, May 24.—The following letter has been received here from the party of Frenchmen who left Detroit a short time ago to settle Mestassini region: "Metassini, Lake St. John, May 14.—To all our dear friends—After a safe journey of three days we reached the present favorite home. No doubt we are in nature's favorite corner. We were made to-day the proprietors of the best agricultural lands that ever existed. We are favored with a climate out of comparison for the season. Beautiful nature is just as green here as when we left. Folks and friends now are. Everybody has work and there is enough for hundreds and hundreds more. We have named our little colony New Detroit, and we must say that the future, as the present, seems to be of great brightness. It is useless to add to all this that all promises made to us were carried out word by word. Now, our Detroit friends, if you wish to know more of our fate, we all invite you to drop a line from far away Detroit, and we will be glad to let you hear from us." This is signed by about a dozen members of the colony.

DESPATCHES BY CABLE.

Iris's Political Prisoners to be Pardoned.

London, May 24.—The birthday of the Queen was observed to-day with the usual artillery salutes, the ringing of church bells, and reviews at the different naval and military stations. The London celebration will take place on Wednesday.

It is believed to be certain that many, perhaps all, of the political prisoners, including the Invincibles, James Fitzharris, Larry Hamlon, and Joe Mullet, will be pardoned early in June in commemoration of the sixtieth year of the reign of the Queen.

The Standard understands that Mr. Labouchere will withdraw the charges he has made in Truth and before the South Africa Parliamentary Commission against Dr. Rutherford Harris, the confidante of Mr. Cecil Rhodes, and a leading spirit in the British South Africa Chartered Company, the stockbrokers having refused to testify.

Vienna, May 24.—The Hungarian papers accuse the Catholic clergy of fomenting the riots by asserting that the Government intends to introduce civil marriage. The soldiers who were assigned to preserved order at Beanyosai have been fired upon and stoned by a crowd of a thousand, mostly women.

Madrid May 24.—The political situation here seems to be as follows: The Government, not wishing to yield to the Opposition by resigning, will appear before the Cortes; but if the Liberals do not attend the opening session a Ministerial crisis will be occasioned. Under the circumstances, the retention of the present Cabinet does not seem impossible. The Liberals, who consider the formation of a Sagasta Cabinet inevitable within a few days, having abandoned all idea of agreeing upon the formation of a working Ministry. The projected duel between the son of the Duke of Tetuan, Minister for Foreign Affairs, and Prof. Comas, the Liberal Senator whose ears were boxed by the Duke on Friday last in the lobby of the Senate, has been abandoned, the dispute having been amicably settled.

The Heraldo of this city says it learns that high persons have asked Marshal Martinez de Campos, the former Captain-General of Cuba, to come to Madrid

There are so many cough medicines in the market, that it is sometimes difficult to tell which to buy; but if we had a cough, a cold or any affliction of the throat or lungs, we would try Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. A Successful Life.

He was a quiet man, ready for ever good work. His voice was not heard on the street; he did not aspire to be a leader. But his influence was felt, and, in fact, he led many by drawing them into close relations to himself. When he died there was mourning among all classes, and from distance places the people came to his funeral. He was "beloved in the Lord," a "faithful and beloved brother." He was a follower of Christ, whose religion appeared in his business relations, and manifested itself in Christian work. The poor bore testimony to his kindness and his help in their work and cares. Ministers bore testimony to his help in their official duties. The members of the church bore testimony to his help in personal living, and in better service to the Master. The world bore testimony to his life as a consistent Christian. Who will estimate the value of such a life? Was it not a great success?

Saved Her Drunken Husband

She Finally Administered a Remedy Without his Knowledge, and Cured Him.

A correspondent writes: I had such a happy home, and a noble, big-hearted husband till he took to drinking, first through sociability, then because the fiendish desire would come over him, crazing him for drink.

"I was heart-broken. My happy home was fast becoming one of misery till a friend told me to try a liquor cure called Anti-Booze. I was willing to try anything, so I sent $1.00 as she suggested, to the Oriental Chemical Co., 20 St. Alexis St., Montreal, and by return mail I received in a plain wrapper a little box of pills. I put one of these in his coffee every night and morning without him knowing what it was, and they dissolved immediately, and in less than a week, to my delight, he stopped drinking entirely.

"Anti-Booze has changed my drunken husband into a sober, steady, happy man, and I feel it my duty to tell others about it. They will send full information without charge to any who will write them. "J. D. H." 18cm

Died at Cleveland.

Mr. William Ferguson died at Cleveland, Oaio, on 21 April, aged 43 years. Deceased was a son of Mr. John Ferguson of Maribank and had been a resident of Cleveland for eighteen years, where he married, and had prospered. His early death was due to enlargement of the heart. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn the loss of a loving and an affectionate father. He also leaves a brother Mr. John Ferguson of Tompsonville, Mich., and two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Henderson, Robbin's Hill, Napanee, and Mrs. C. Whiting of Toronto. Deceased was an active christian, a member of the Episcopalian church, a lay reader, and Sunday School superintendent for twelve years. The many friends in these parts will sympathise with the relatives and friends in their bereavement.

The Picton Races.

Napanee was well represented at the Picton races on Monday last. The races themselves were good, some very close finishes taking place. There was a very large attendance, the grand stand being packed, and the fences adjoining were crowded with spectators. But the time lost in securing for start made the crowd not a little weary. No less than fourteen trials were made before the word was given in the 3-minute class. The starts in the other classes were a little better. In consequence of this delay excursionists had to leave the grounds before the free-for-all, the best race of the day, was finished. An official starter, such as is employed by the Napanee Association, would have made short work of some of the drivers, who, if they could not get the desired position, held back and then started with a start. Following is a summary:

Free-for-all, four starters, purse $225:

Victorian Order of Nurses.

On Tuesday afternoon in response to the Mayor's call a moderately sized meeting was held in the Town Hall to consider what action should be taken in the above cause. The Mayor read a communication from her excellency Lady Aberdeen, requesting him to call a meeting and explain the object of the movement. A letter from Rev. Mr. Jarvis expressing regret at enforced absence was also read. There was considerable discussion and much sympathy expressed with the scheme. It was moved by His Honor Judge Wilkinson, seconded by Rev. A. MacDonald, that this meeting recognizes the excellent character of the proposed scheme and trusts that it may be found to be one that can be carried out in the Dominion, and we pledge ourselves to do all in our power to promote its success. Carried.

Moved by Rev. W. W. Peck, sec. by Judge Wilkison, that the mayor request the clergymen of the different churches to preach a sermon on the subject and direct those desirous of subscribing to the fund to pay in at the Merchants' Bank. Carried. Moved by Mr. Bellhouse, seconded by Judge Wilkison, that the Mayor, County Judge, Revs. Peck, MacDonald, Hagan and such other clergymen be a central committee for the management of the movement in Napanee. Carried. After considerable discussion, in which Mrs. Dr. Edwards, Dr. Symington, Mrs. Wilkison, Mr. J. R. Brown and others took part, the meeting adjourned.

—Mr. T. H. Waller, this week, manufactured a 6,000lb. cheese vat for a Picton factory.

—Refrigerators, ice cream freezers, screen doors, screen windows, gas stoves, blue flame oil stoves at BOYLE & SON'S.

—W. Fraleigh, Bloomfield, ex-warden of Prince Edward, father of Dr. Fraleigh, died at Toronto on Tuesday, aged about 82.

—The Ladies' Aid of the Western church will run fortnightly excursions, per steamer Retndeer, beginning the first Friday afternoon in June.

—A full house greeted the "Dear Irish Home" company at the Opera house Wednesday evening. The piece was well put on, and replete with those touching scenes so usual in Irish plays.

—On Wednesday, while taking an excursion from Picton to Belleville, the steamer Merrit ran "splomb" into the dock at Deseronto smashing a large hole in her bow, rut above the water line.

—Messrs. Herring & Sons find trade this spring better than for years past. Their new reaper is proving a great favorite amongst the farmers and the other implements they manufacture are finding ready sale.

—Miss LaDell, elocutionist, of Toronto, will hold a recital in the Opera House, Napanee, on the evenings of July 1st and 2nd. She will be assisted in the programmes by Miss Ida McLean, soprano, and Mr. Fay, humorous character vocalist, of Toronto, and Mr. J. Fred Ebley. Remember the dates.

Telephone Changes.

A change has been made in the management of the telephone agency here. Mr. Livesley, the popular manager, has been removed, and the agency will be placed under the control of Mr. W. C. Stringer, of Belleville agency, who will visit the office twice a week, do the collecting, etc., the present staff doing the other work of the office. Mr. and Mrs. Livesley have made many friends during their residence in Napanee, who will regret their removal from our midst.

The Great Question

Is why RIKLEY'S Cake and Candies are the best—for the reason that he knows how to make them. Other makes of Cake would be just as good if made right, but it happens that they are not. RIKLEY knows how to make good Ice Cream, too. Brick or any kind you want.

Mining News.

Capt. Holmes and Mr. J. Rud. Perry returned last week from the rear of the county, and are well pleased with the investments they have made. They have options on about 2,000 acres of mineral property. Other mine owners are talking of joining with them, and a strong company may soon be formed and operations commenced in real earnest. The gold is most certainly there in abundance, but push and capital are required to bring it out.

Friday Excursions.

The popular steamer, Ella Ross, will commence her Friday excursions from Napanee to Belleville and Trenton on Friday next, June 4th, and continue each Friday until 10th September. These weekly trips have been popular in the past, and should be even more so this season. The steamer is staunch, comfortable and reliable, the trip is a delightful one, Captain Christie and his staff are efficient and obliging, and the fare for the return trip, 35 cents, places a day's outing within the reach of all.

One Honest Yankee Statesman.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 18.—Senator Rodolph Lehfeldt of the district composed of Crawford, Harrison and Monona counties, was prevented by unavoidable business demands upon his time from attending the sessions of the senate during the extra session. He came here several times when his vote was needed on important matters, but he was here very little of his time. To-day he returned his warrant of $678 to Auditor McCarthy, who in turn delivered it to Treasurer Herriott, and it was canceled at the senator's request. He explained that he had been unable to attend the sessions and did not consider that he had earned the money, therefore he returned it to the state.—Cleveland Recorder. Senator Rodolph Lehfeldt is an uncle of Mr. H. Rudolph Breden, who at a year ago married a Canadian lady, Ida, only daughter of the late Mr. T. E. Howard, grain merchant, of Bath, Ontario.

The Foresters' Excursion.

The excursion given under the auspices of the Canadian Order of Foresters on Monday last was a success. A large crowd boarded the boat at Napanee and with the additions made at Deseronto, Hoff's, and Trompsonville, the steamer had about her full complement or passengers—350. The weather early in the day was gloomy and threatening, but by the time Picton was reached the clouds had rolled by, the sun shone bright and warm and the balance of the day was all that could be asked for. Horse and bicycle races and a football match were the attractions in that town for the visitors, and the Napanee contingent were very much in evidence at the race track. The return trip was commenced at 4.30 p.m. sharp. The young people seemed bound to have a good time, dancing, singing and other innocent amusements being indulged in. After Deseronto had been left the trouble began. The night had shut down very dark. This was Capt. Clark's first trip up the river at night this season, and in spite of his vigilance and that of his crew, the steamer was run hard and fast into the mud about four miles from Napanee. The anchor was dropped some distance off and efforts were made to get the boat afloat in this and various other ways. All proved of no use however, and soon was heard the song "We won't go home until morning." This did not suit all the passengers; some were bound to get home that night, and at once too. The small boats were lowered and those who wished were landed on shore, and allowed the privilege of walking in with out extra charge. The Jessie Forward ran down about 2o'clock and brought up a load. At daylight several more boatloads were put on shore, so that when the tug Roscoe arrived to her relief the Merritt had less than one hundred people on board. The tug after an hour's pulling and twisting got the steamer once more in the channel, when headway was again made, and Napanee reached about 8 o'clock. Capt. Clark and crew did everything possible to make the passengers comfortable; rooms were given up to ladies, and everybody was allowed the run of the boat in search or easy quarters. The committee were greatly disappointed in the non-arrival of the band instruments, as music was all that was needed to complete a day of thorough enjoyment. A donation will, however be made to the band.

NOTES.

In last issue it was stated that the Montreal Turnpike Co. was likely to tax bicyclists for the use of their roads. The secretary of the C.W.A. says that he will be only too glad to take up the members' legal rights against the company, as he has no doubt the company is no such power.

Our local riders are even now reaping the benefit of the C.W.A. fighting the toll keepers on the Kingston road, a year or two since.

As some of our members are opposed to holding the club meetings at the hotel, Mr. W. J. Normile has allowed us to meet at his salesroom, and we should appreciate his kindness. If we had enough cash in the treasury we could hire a private room, and I hope we will be able to do so before long. Our officers should take more interest in the meetings and be present when possible.

The following wheeled to Kingston on Sunday last: Messrs. James Wilson, G. E. Hall, Alex. Henry, J. Boyce, G. Dey, C. Wilson, M. Nixon and Max Fox.

It is said that one of our fast road riders was caught about fifteen miles out last Sunday by a punctured tire, and had to walk home. It is too bad that the "Standard of the World" breaks down like other wheels. Wheelmen should carry their repair kits with them. TOURIST.

FOOTBALL.

The sixth and seventh games of the Quinte league were played at Kingston on the 24th inst., the contesting teams being Napanee vs. Kingston and Sydenham vs. Picton. A very large crowd witnessed the games. Napanee's representatives were Messrs. Lamey, Smith, Durand, Haines, G. Exley, Vanalstine, Wagar, Stevens, W. Exley, Preston and Chown. The Kingston team were composed of Messrs. Ferguson, Robinson, O'Connor, Shaw, Sliter, Hamilton, Martin, D. Murray, McCaig, Edmison and P. Murray. The game was very interesting, being characterized with that snap and go that are so interesting to the spectators. Neither team scored in the first half, although the ball hovered in close proximity to Napanee's goal more than two-thirds of the time. In the second half, Kingston scored three goals, they Napanee scored one and thus the game ended. Preston, Lamey and Smith did grand work for the home team. Not a shot after shot was rained at Lamey, but he proved a corker and was almost impregnable. Napanee was admitted to be the "hardest nut" Kingston has had to "crack" yet.

The Picton-Sydenham match did not evoke much enthusiasm, slowness and lack of combination were the principal objections made for this. The final score was 1 to o in favor of Sydenham.

On Friday of next week Kingston and Deseronto play at the latter place.

Sydenham and Napanee will play on the home grounds on Saturday, June 5th.

BASE BALL.

Next Friday afternoon the printers and clerks will try conclusions. Game at 3.30 in the park. A number of players of the town will be drafted on both sides and a very good game may be looked for.

Bellville has organized a club and calls it the "Handsome Nine." We hope in accepting challenges they will make a more handsome appearance than they did with the printers last year.

CRICKET.

Deseronto club defeated the Belleville eleven on Monday by 1 run and 7 wickets. Belleville made 42 and 46 in the first and second innings, and Deserronto 26 and 63.

The grounds of the club in the park are now in excellent condition. A new mower has been purchased and the lawn and crease look trim and in good shape. The members practice every evening. Young cricketers and juvenile clubs are made welcome and will be coached and assisted. All lovers of the gentleman's game are invited to come out and practice with the club.

CURLING.

A meeting of the curling club was held on Tuesday evening as advertised. There was an attendance of about thirty members. The question of a match between the forty-seven rinkers and Messrs. Pollard & Wilson, proprietors of the rink, was accepted. A code of by-laws which the executive committee had drawn up was gone over and ratified by the members. All that now remains to be done is that the proprietors of the rink complete the work which, owing to the lateness of the start last year, they were unable to do, and thus put the rink in first-class order.

Bicycle Suits of same cloth, $6. Ready-made ones cost that. And we are making up any cloth we have just as cheaply. For instance, a full suit of fine Black English Worsted costs you $15, and WE GUARANTEE OUR WORK THE BEST IN NAPANEE.
